I. Introduction

As a coder in Operation 2 – Economic Coding, you will code two sets of questions on Form 2B/2C/2D/3 census questionnaires. The questions you will work with are 37 and 38 for Industry, and 39 and 40 for Occupation. The Economic Coding operation also involves an identification of whom to code step to determine whether or not Economic Coding is required for the respondent. This ensures Industry and Occupation data is not captured for people who have not worked since January 1, 1995, or who have reported only volunteer work, housework, maintenance or repair work around the house.

The TM-200 Economic Coding Training Guide allows you to apply the procedures from the M-200 Economic Coding Procedures Manual. Chapters II, III and IV contain specific training exercises to be completed using the procedures outlined in the corresponding chapters of the procedures manual. Chapter V contains responses to Questions 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, and 43 for 10 respondents which you will code using the procedures manual. Chapter VI consists of responses to Questions 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, and 43 for 55 respondents which you will code using the On-line Reference Manual System (ORMS). By completing these training exercises, you will simulate a live coding environment which will prepare you for coding actual questionnaires.

The following is a list of items you will require during the training session:

- M-200 – Economic Coding Procedures Manual;
- List of Establishments (extract);
- Industrial Coding Manual;
- Occupational Coding Manual;
- black lead pencil;
- eraser.

II. Identification of Whom to Code

Please read Chapter II – Identification of Whom to Code in the M-200 Economic Coding Procedures Manual on page 11, and use the responses provided for the next 14 exercises to determine whether Economic Coding is required for each respondent.

Identify and enter the correct identification of whom to code action in the space provided. Please note that only the specific actions identified in Chapter II of the Economic Coding Procedures Manual need to be indicated in your answer. It is not necessary for you to proceed to subsequent chapters in the Economic Coding Procedures Manual to complete Industry and Occupation coding.

III. Coding of Industry

The purpose of Chapter III is to provide practice exercises for Industry Questions 37 and 38 for you to code. Using the List of Establishments (LOE) extract and the Industrial Coding Manual (ICM), apply the procedures from Chapter III of the M-200 Economic Coding Procedures Manual to determine the correct Industry code or action to be taken for each respondent. Write the code directly in the office coding box. If the procedures indicate a response must be referred, write a "R" beneath the diagram.

Note: During actual production, a referred question must be written on a Referral Form. No marks would be made on the questionnaire. The above referral instruction to write a "R" on the questionnaire is for training purposes only. Remember, all codes must be made in black lead pencil.

Question 39: Administrative Officer

IV. Coding of Occupation

The purpose of Chapter IV is to provide practice exercises for Occupation Questions 39 and 40 for you to code. Using the Occupational Coding Manual (OCM), apply the procedures from Chapter IV of the M-200 Economic Coding Procedures Manual to determine the correct Occupation code or action to be taken for each respondent. Write the code directly in the office coding box. If the procedures indicate a response must be referred, write a "R" beneath the diagram.

Note: During actual production, a referred question must be written on a Referral Form. No marks would be made on the questionnaire. The above referral instruction to write a "R" on the questionnaire is for training purposes only. Remember, all codes must be made in black lead pencil.

V. Coding Exercises

This chapter contains a series of exercises designed to simulate actual coding activities. There are 10 questions with fictional respondents providing information for Questions 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, and 43. By completing these exercises, you are practising the coding procedures for Operation 2 - Economic Coding which will be used during live production.

By referring to the procedures in the M-200 Economic Coding Procedures Manual and using the reference material which includes the Industrial Coding Manual (ICM), the Occupational Coding Manual (OCM) and the List of Establishments (LOE) extract, determine the correct code or action to be taken for Questions 37 to 40 for each respondent. Enter the codes in the appropriate office coding boxes for each question. If you decide that a question should be referred, enter a "R" beside the coding boxes for that question.

Note: For the purposes of this exercise, assume that each respondent must be coded. It is not necessary for you to perform the identification of whom to code procedures as specified in Chapter II of the Economic Coding Procedures Manual.

Note: During actual production, a referred question must be written on a Referral Form. No marks would be made on the questionnaire. The above referral instruction to write a "R" on the questionnaire is for training purposes only. Remember, all codes must be made in black lead pencil.

Exercise 1

VI. Coding Exercises Using ORMS

This chapter contains 55 questions with fictional respondents providing information for Questions 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42 and 43. The purpose of this chapter is to allow you to code the questions using the On-line Reference Manual System (ORMS).

By referring to the procedures in the M-200 Economic Coding Procedures Manual and using the ORMS, determine the correct code or action to be taken for Questions 37 to 40 for each respondent. Enter the codes in the appropriate office coding boxes for each question. If you decide that a question should be referred, enter a "R" beside the question.

Note: For the purposes of this exercise, assume that each respondent must be coded. It is not necessary for you to perform the identification of whom to code procedures as specified in Chapter II of the Economic Coding Procedures Manual.

Note: During actual production, a referred question must be written on a Referral Form. No marks would be made on the questionnaire. The above referral instruction to write a "R" on the questionnaire is for training purposes only. Remember, all codes must be made in black lead pencil.

Use of ORMS

To code these responses, you will use the ORMS. The ORMS will be used in Economic Coding for the 1996 Census. This system replaces the paper copies of the List of Establishments (LOE), Industrial Coding Manual (ICM) and Occupational Coding Manual (OCM). All information from these three sources will be available in an electronic format in the ORMS which contains:

- a LOE listing for each province in Canada;
- an ICM;
- an OCM.

The electronic format of the ORMS will allow more efficient coding of the Industry and Occupation questions.

As a reminder, when using the ORMS, ensure that you select the LOE for the correct province and that you select the ICM when searching for Industry codes and the OCM when searching for Occupation codes.
